

NJ Trust Planning Attorneys Release Information About New Uniform Trust Code

June 29, 2016

June 29, 2016 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Fendrick & Morgan LLC, a law firm in Voorhees Township, NJ, has released a range of articles, videos, and other educational information on their website to help people understand the new Uniform Trust Code in New Jersey. This will go into effect on July 17, 2016. This will apply to all kinds of trusts, including living, revocable, charitable, special needs, grantor retained, qualified income, gifting to grandchildren, and so on.

Doug Fendrick, Esquire, of Fendrick & Morgan, LLC states "The enactment of the Uniform Trust Act in New Jersey will change the way we do Trust planning. Moving forward, it is imperative that our clients understand the significance of these changes. At Fendrick & Morgan, we are excited about the additional planning opportunities we will have under the UTC."

Fendrick & Morgan, LLC has dedicated itself to serving areas of estate planning, elder law, special needs planning, estate tax planning, Medicaid applications, and Medicaid planning. They have a unique approach in which they use their in-depth knowledge to create customized plans for each of their clients, in order to ensure that their individual needs are properly met. They achieve this by listening to their clients, and also by ensuring people can be empowered to learn more about the possibilities that exist in their elderly planning provisions, and to ensure that they can keep up with new legislation and regulations.

The company has also released a video to further explain how the new UTC will apply and how Fendrick & Morgan will ensure full compliance. They feel that this will better enable clients and prospective clients to understand how it applies to them, and how significant these changes are.

Those who have worked with the firm have been very happy with the services they have received, citing that the professionals at Fendrick & Morgan are able to make complicated situations more manageable. They mention how the estate attorneys clearly have a lot of knowledge and insight on relevant laws and regulations, and how they can translate these into an easy to understand language. As such, the video and other information released by the estate attorneys have been very well received.
