Status Transportation, a business in Winter Garden, FL, is proud to announce that via Status Truck and Trailer Repair, they have become a dealer for ACEMCO Power Systems. The company strives to adhere to anti idle laws, while always providing the best price to company owner operators for the ACEMCO Auxiliary Power Units (APUs). Through these units, truckers can experience greater in-cab comfort, as well as extending the intervals between truck engine maintenance.

Erik Chavez from Status Transportation says: "ACEMCO provides the best auxiliary power units on the market, in our opinion. It does everything you would expect an APU to do, and more. Our goal is to make sure everyone in the trucking industry is able to drive the highest quality, safest trucks, in a comfortable manner, without it costing them the earth, and that is exactly what the Acemco APU can deliver."

Keeping a truck or tractor engine running idly to ensure a cold start or leave the AC running is incredibly costly. Idling, as it is known, significantly increases the cost of fuel and it also places the engine under stress. Additionally, the government is cracking down on idle running, having instated a number of anti idle laws, incurring hefty fines if these are broken.

Research has shown that a typical sleep truck wastes around 3,000 gallons of diesel each year. While the price of diesel varies, installing an APU like the ACEMCO model could lead to savings of around $10,000 per year. "With the ACEMCO APU, you have the ability to turn off your engine and keep in-cab comfort level while reducing your operating costs," Katherine from Status Transportation adds. "Safely protected in its weatherproof compartment on the side rails, the ACEMCO APU runs off the truck's fuel supply."

The company is encouraging all truck and tractor drivers to contact them about installing the Acemco APU. As shown by the many Status Transportation reviews, the company is highly trusted and respected for their high quality, professional services as well as for being able to keep the cost down. As one of the only Acemco dealers in the geographical area, they have already received a lot of interest.
