Bariatric Mexico Surgery, a Bariatric Service Provider in Tijuana, Baja California, Mexico, has announced that hospitals in Mexico have now been proven to be able to comply with excellent standards and have therefore established their credibility as safe places to undergo surgery. BMS, which has become the go to place for people looking for affordable yet high quality bariatric procedures, has recently released new information on the safety of weight loss surgery in Mexico, to further highlight why Mexico is a preferred option.

Alma Orozco from Bariatric Mexico Surgery says: "Hospitals in Mexico are setting global standards for bariatric surgery. In fact, some hospitals here are even safer than those in the US. On average, Mexican bariatric surgeons perform a lot more procedures than their American and even Canadian counterparts. In fact, surgeons from Canada and the United States now come to Mexico to receive training."

It is a known fact that many bariatric procedures became available in Mexico before they were available in the US. As such, it has also long been the go to destination for bariatric surgery. To maintain this excellent reputation, clinics and hospitals are committed to safety and security, as can be seen at <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=3XhIgiPLGjY>. In fact, even the government is playing a role in this, cleaning up cities to make them more welcoming and safer. Furthermore, the Mexico Board of Health has ensured patients can easily cross the border.

For many, bariatric surgery in Mexico is like a mini-vacation. They can travel through a specialized express lane at the border so that they can arrive at their destination much more quickly. They are then housed in a beautiful hotel before and after their procedure, where they will receive the highest standards in aftercare. Some of the hotels that cater specifically to bariatric patients include the Marriot Hotel. Tijuana in particular is proving to be very popular, not in the least because they offer the same or higher standards of care and safety, but are more affordable than places such as Monterrey, Cabo San Lucas, Cancun, or Puerto Vallarta.

Those looking for bariatric surgery in Mexico are encouraged to visit the BMS website for further information.
