

Portland Roofers Roofing Company Offers New Incentives For Homeowners

August 11, 2016

August 11, 2016 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Portland Roofers, which provides roofing services to homeowners, has recently announced that they have several discounts and incentives available. Jason Rooley with Portland Roofers states, "At Portland Roofers, you can trust us to provide you with prime quality service but at a much more affordable cost." Rooley states that they are considered the best roofers in Portland, and one of the reasons for this is their affordability.

The company has announced that they are now offering specific discounts to members of the military as well as to senior citizens. In addition, they will be providing a 5 percent discount to anyone who tells them that they found them on Google SERPS and followed those links to their company website.

Rooley states that their customer service is the main reason that most customers prefer them over other roofing companies. Regarding their roofing replacement services, he says, "With our professional, skilled, and dedicated team of contractors, you can be assured of us rendering nothing but the best roofing services," Those who are interested can click here to find out more about Portland roof replacement.

Portland Roofers also provides a 10 year extended contractor warranty that protects against future leaks. The warranty, however, does not cover damages from acts of nature or storms. The company has been providing roofing services in the Portland area for a number of years and they state that they look forward to serving new customers in the near future.

Among the specials and discounts offered is a $50 incentive to previous customers whose referral or recommendation has led to a re-roofing project for the company. Rooley says that this is just one way that the company hopes to keep current customers happy while adding new homeowners to their list of satisfied clientele. The company states that this incentive is paid in cash when existing customers mention the name of the referral and their home address that the company worked on. Rooley says that they regularly update their service offerings and discounts and that customers can check back with them for updated information.

Those interested can visit the Portland Roofers official website to learn more about these Portland roofers.
