January 18, 2017 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Athens, Ga. ? Express Employment Professionals, a leading temp agency in Athens, GA, is prepared to tackle the upcoming employment challenges in 2017. Now that the new year is here, the workers of Athens are eager to get back on the road to success.

The holiday season, as always, was a unique occasion for the residents in the Athens community. The times spent with family and friends were precious, and as much as the workers in the area would enjoy reliving the splendor of the season, they must get back to their daily jobs. Thankfully, Express is taking vital steps to make certain that its services are superior in the near future.

?Every year we strive to find new ways to help the community grow, especially when it pertains to the job market and the need to fill positions,? Owner John Culpepper said.

Whether it?s aiding companies with day-to-day employment services or helping job candidates find short-term positions for quick cash, Express is aiming to create success on a consistent basis. The Express team prides itself on being one of the top temp agencies in Athens, GA, so its work in 2017 must exceed the accomplishments of 2016.

?Our ultimate goal is to develop even more staffing opportunities to implement into this year?s plan by deeply analyzing the issues in the community and communicating directly with those in need,? Culpepper said.
