January 27, 2017 - PRESSADVANTAGE -
Douglas, Ga. ? Mr. Rooter Plumbing of Southeast Georgia, a leading plumbing company in Douglas, GA, is thrilled to supply its customers with expert safety tips for National Bath Safety Month.

National Bath Safety Month, which occurs every January, is acknowledged as the essential time of the year to inform homeowners on the ins and outs of bath safety. The objective is to kick-off the new year right by avoiding the possibilities of slips and falls in the bathroom. Mr. Rooter Plumbers of Southeast Georgia has a couple of suggestions to battle these types of issues.

?National Bath Safety Month may sound silly but it?s more important than most people think,? Buddy Carver said. ?Homeowners should be concerned with the issue of slipping and falling in the bathroom mainly because it?s so easy and cheap to prevent.?

When dealing with safety in the bathroom, a tiny, inexpensive item could be the difference in a safe shower experience and a nasty fall. Mr. Rooter Plumbing advises homeowners to purchase affordable products like non-skid rugs and shower shelving to guarantee safety when entering and exiting the bathtub. Even items like shower curtain liners and non-slip bath mats can prove to be worthy purchases in the months ahead.

The bath safety concern may seem like an issue of small importance, but clearly it is one to stress. The plumbing in Douglas, GA, service firmly understands the significance of home maintenance, so it is crucial to take note of the tips offered in order to ensure a safe new year.

?These low-cost items will prove to be valuable purchases in 2017,? Buddy Carver said. ?Safety comes first in everything, even when pertaining to something as simple as using the bathtub.?
