

Landmark Tree Care Highlights Tree Care Services Backed by ISA Certified Arborists

November 23, 2026

COLUMBIA, MO - November 23, 2026 -
Landmark Tree Care, a professional tree service company serving Boone County, Missouri, has reaffirmed its commitment to professional arboriculture as it continues to expand its range of services across the Mid-Missouri region. The company, which maintains a team of ISA Certified Arborists, provides tree removal, pruning, stump grinding, plant health care, emergency response, and land clearing for homeowners throughout the area.

The company has earned a consistent 5-star rating for its work, a reflection of its focus on honest recommendations, sustainable practices, and careful attention to every property it serves. Landmark Tree Care in Greater Columbia operates around the clock, with an emergency response team on standby to address hazardous conditions caused by storms, fallen limbs, and other unforeseen events.

Founded and led by Owen Alexander, the company has built its reputation on technical expertise and professional certification. Alexander began climbing trees at the age of 14 and trained under a third-generation arborist and Midwest tree climbing champion before assembling a team of certified professionals.

"Certification and experience make a measurable difference in the health and safety of the trees under care," said Owen Alexander, Owner of Landmark Tree Care. "Every assessment begins with an honest evaluation of what a tree actually needs, rather than an assumption that removal is the only answer. That approach has guided the work from the beginning."

Tree trimming in Columbia remains one of the company's most frequently requested services, particularly during seasons when property owners seek to maintain tree health, reduce storm risk, and preserve the appearance of their landscapes. The company's arborists approach pruning as a discipline aimed at promoting long-term vitality rather than short-term appearance, using techniques intended to support the structural integrity of each tree.

Beyond routine maintenance, the company addresses the full life cycle of tree care. Its stump grinding service helps property owners reclaim usable yard space, while its land clearing service prepares sites for construction and landscaping projects. Tree and plant health care rounds out the offering, with disease assessment and treatment delivered through sustainable methods intended to protect surrounding vegetation.

"Storm damage and aging trees create real risks for families and their homes," Alexander said. "Having a certified team available at any hour means those situations can be handled safely and without delay, which is something the community has come to rely on."

The company's emphasis on certification reflects a broader trend in the arboriculture industry, where property owners increasingly seek credentialed professionals to handle work that carries both safety and financial consequences. Improper pruning or removal can compromise tree health and create liability, making professional expertise a growing consideration for homeowners in the region.
