Closet Pro in Greenville SC has announced that they are now offering garage organization services to customers in and around the Greenville region. The company offers organization solutions to home and business owners and recently began providing closet organization as well as their other services to Greenville customers.

Jeff Ellis with the company says, "Most homeowners overlook the storage potential in their garages. There is so much space to work with it makes the garage the perfect organization center, and we can help you to realize just how much storage potential you have."

Ellis says that the company focuses on three main aspects of organization for garages: function, durability, and beauty. The company builds garage systems that fasten to walls at various points to ensure that they are safe and secure. Ellis says that Closet Pro systems are among the safest and most durable in the industry.

"We build them to last for many years," Ellis states. "We want you to enjoy your organization system for as long as you enjoy your home."

Ellis says that Greenville customers can have a wide selection of materials and surfaces including wood grains and butcher block looks. He states that they strategically place their organization systems to ensure the most effective use of space while allowing for vehicles to be parked freely without worries of shelving being in the way. Closet Pro offers a variety of sizes and accessories as well, and they ensure that there is a perfect system for every homeowner.

"We offer a customized approach to your storage needs.We can add high tech metallic and LED lights with stainless steel work spaces, or a warm and inviting system with a nice wood grain that resembles the cabinets in your kitchen," says Ellis. "Whatever you need, we can provide it. Check us out on Houzz to see some of the systems that we have created."
