Odessa, TX based company Roy Wingate Business Consultants was recently hired by Houston Custom Pool Contractors to take charge of their overall online presence and marketing campaign. The contractor helps homeowners create the outdoor space of their dreams, which include pools, fences, decking, outdoor kitchens, and fire pits. To further emphasize the work they do on fire pits in particular, Roy Wingate has recently published a video on this subject. The new video is available for viewing at https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=g_DfPywyZY, and it has already been viewed multiple times.

"Houston Custom Pool Contractors (<https://houstoncustompoolcontractors.com/>) really is a business with a difference," says Roy Wingate himself. "They are committed to helping people get the best possible outdoor space, and they believe that this starts not by promoting their own service, but rather by empowering people with knowledge and information. This is clearly highlighted in the new fire pit video, where they encourage people to contact them on how to create the perfect fire."

In the video, an introduction is first provided on fire pits and their current popularity. It also highlights the fact that these features can significantly increase the overall value of a property, while the focus is on present enjoyment. For the contractor, it is clear that they want people to create a space in which they can feel happy, and they are honored to play a part in that. As such, they focus very strongly on providing people with tips and advice. They also offer free, no obligation quotations for any outdoor construction.

"What we realized from working with Houston Custom Pool Contractors was that they truly love outdoor spaces, and they simply want to share that love," adds Roy Wingate. "This is seen in everything that they do, which focuses mainly on sharing information with people, talking about wonderful times spent outside, and more. It has been a pleasure working with them, and we're so happy to see that our efforts have started to produce good results as well."

People are encouraged to contact Houston Custom Pool for any outdoor construction work, or Roy Wingate Business Consultants for information on online marketing.
