Athens, Ga. - Express Employment Professionals has been a recognized employment center in Athens, GA and aims to eliminate unemployment. By providing jobs for the Athens and Covington area, the job agency hopes to increase the rate of job satisfaction and improve the lives of the community. They do this by hybridizing the involvement of a local job business with the powerful reach of a worldwide corporation.

?We?re very particular about finding employment opportunities for those in need. You have to have love for the job you?re working for, otherwise, it just won?t work out in the long run,? Express Employment Athens owner John Culpepper said. ?Jobs need to be in your passions and interests or you will dread working every day.?

The company was founded in 1983 and helps employ hundreds of thousands of people across the globe. Whether it be temporary staffing, or a full-time career, Express provides a solution to any employment opportunity. The benefits of working with Express are the ability to work with a local job office that extends the power of an international corporation. This puts the company as one of the best staffing agencies in Athens, GA.

Express Employment Professionals also invests in educational opportunities that offer useful information for the workplace. With topics such as employee morale and conflict management available in the form of online webinars, Express Employment Professionals hopes to reach their goal of improving employment rates and job satisfaction levels.
