

Wholeness Home Releases New Diversion Safes In Response To Shocking FBI Statistics

Wholeness Home, a household goods company in Pasadena, CA, have recently released what they believe to be the best diversion safe in their lineup, helping people to keep their valuables safe. They hope that this product will help people feel more safe about their belongings, in an enjoyable manner.

"The reality is that many housebreaks happen each year", says Annie French from Wholeness Home. "Unfortunately, we do not have it in our power to stop break ins from happening. However, what we can do is make sure people have less chance of having their real valuables stolen by making them feel more secure thanks to our diversion safe is for."

The Wholeness Home diversion safe is shaped exactly like a book, the New English Dictionary in particular. One of the things that sets this one apart from others, and why the company is confident in calling it the "best" diversion safe, is that the cover is made from a fabric material, just like a real book. The safe itself is steel, making it nearly impossible to break into. It also comes with two keys, so that two people can have access to it. Most importantly, however, the realism of the safe means that it can be placed in plain sight and still be overlooked by burglars and other people with unscrupulous intent.

Diversion safes have been proven to be highly successful in thwarting burglars because they are not obvious. Additionally, they have long been popular in various mystery and "who done it" stories. In various stories, for instance, clues and items are hidden inside a book, where the pages have been cut out to create a space to hide something in. Indeed, the diversion safe is also very popular with children, who see it as a fun item to play with. At the same time, however, some parents like these safes because they keep the children out, as their own personal kids will do everything they can to keep their noses out of the books.

The reviews of the Wholeness Home, whose website can be accessed by someone who will click here, have been overwhelmingly positive. "This is as good as it gets", says Shopaholic. "Its so real looking that it will have anyone fooled. It has cloth texture exterior and solid steel interior compartment."

Wholeness Home also delivers a range of other affordable kitchen items, as well as other items for the home. While their diversion safe is one of their most popular items, their cake decorating kit and cheese grater, amongst others, are also proving to be in high demand. Wholeness Home wants to create items that are fun, but functional at the same time. Their diversion safe is a great example of this.
