May 21, 2015 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Company representatives at Whiskey Baller have recently announced that their new Round Ice Maker mold is now available for purchase. This new kind ice mold makes for an interesting twist on cocktails and many other types of drinks. Ben Adkins, a spokesman for the company, explained that there are many benefits to be enjoyed in using spherical ice in drinks rather than the traditional rectangular ice cubes.

For one thing, he pointed out, the round ice ball tends to melt at a much slower rate than the traditional, rectangular ice cube. This is mainly due to the way the water cools inside the mold and the unique circular shape of the ball. This means that for those who are true cocktail drinkers, their beverage will be able to preserve the quality of its flavor for a much longer period of time without fear of bruising the drink and getting that watered down taste.

The said ice mold is made of High Grade Silicone so that its is durable enough to stand up to all types of abuse. It is also dishwasher safe so the user won't have to worry about damage during clean up. Adkins even claims it is "drunk friends safe" and promises that it will provide the user with more than 1000 balls of perfectly round ice balls during its lifetime.

Adkins pointed out that there are a number of reasons why people may want to have a Round Ice Maker to make these perfectly round sphere ice balls. Aside from the fact that it preserves the integrity of the drink, it is fast becoming a popular device for young and old alike. It is not limited to making ice balls out of water; users can make these frozen spheres out of just about any freezable liquid. He says parents make fancy juice balls to entertain their young children, and adults enjoy it as a great conversation piece at parties and special occasions. Adkins also stated the following:

"The Whiskey Baller "Small Balls" are guaranteed to start a conversation at your next party. Your friends and loved ones will absolutely love the classiness of their next drink or your money back." He added that "drinking should be a classy affair" and the whole idea behind the Whiskey Baller Round Ice Maker is to have more fun with friends and be able to start more conversations.

Each mold is relatively easy to use and makes up to 4 perfectly round ice balls, which are the ideal size for a whiskey glass. It also comes with a 60-day money back guarantee. The Whiskey Baller guarantee ensures that whether someone is enjoying a taste of their favorite brand of whiskey or they're enjoying any other type of beverage, they'll be sure to have the quality they expect.

The Round Ice Maker comes complete with its own guide that gives tips and tricks on how to ensure that every time it's used, it will create a perfect sphere of ice. They also provide videos on how to properly use the new Whiskey Baller to get the best results.
