Milton, Fla. - Gross & Schuster, P.A., Milton personal injury lawyers, share safety tips for when driving. Gross & Schuster deal with a lot of car crash accidents and have heard many sides of the story. They know the common reasons as to why people get into crashes.

The first thing they suggested is to check cars regularly. So many car owners do not take proper care of their vehicle. They do not get an oil change, check their brakes, check the alignment, and much more. Especially if one of the lights go out, car owners should take the time to get their car serviced.

While driving, individuals should pay attention to the road. With the advancement of technology, everyone stays connected with each other at all times; however, they should put down all distractions while driving. So many accidents occur because of texting or phone calls. Individuals get into crashes because they are distracted by their surroundings, billboards, or other things happening in the car. While the vehicle is in drive, the road should be the driver's only priority.

John P, who was a previous client of Gross & Schuster, stated, "At Gross & Shuster I was treated with warm welcomes and concern. Terence Gross was very informative and knowledgeable about my case and what to expect. Tyler Gross kept in contact with me and the insurance company on a regular basis to get the case resolved and in my best interest. Tyler performed his duties with confidence and diligence. I must say I would recommend Gross & Shuster law firm to anyone in need of protection from bullying insurance companies."

These Milton car accident lawyers stress patience. If someone is late to work, they should not speed to get there. It is better to drive safely and arrive late than drive crazy and risk getting into an accident. When on the road, a good rule of thumb is for drivers to stay at least a full car length behind people. There is never a need to drive very close to anyone. Patience is essential when driving and lessens the chance of crashes.

"Quite often, so many car crashes could have been avoided if people follow these tips," said attorney

Terrance Gross. "Even though we take in these cases, we still want people to drive safely. It's important to us that our community stays safe."
