Tucson, Arizona based Healthy Clean Pet offers a line of dog care products, including their popular dog conditioner. The company recently released information emphasizing the benefits of using conditioners specifically designed for dogs.

Gustavo Guerra, a spokesperson for Healthy Clean Pet says, "Dog owners should always use a natural conditioner and products specifically designed for pets because a dog's skin is thinner and more sensitive than that of a human."

Guerra says that their dog conditioner, which is available on the Amazon marketplace at <https://www.amazon.com/Conditioner-Moisturizes-Healthy-Clean-Pet/dp/B01186N77C/>, is an all-natural product and contains no chemicals or other ingredients that could be deemed harmful to dogs. The company states that their conditioner has been found to help fill in the damaged hair that drying, brushing, and dematting a dog's coat can cause. Guerra says that the quality, natural ingredient based conditioner has been observed to restore the dog's coat to a smooth state, and give it a shiny appearance and feel.

"Shampoos by design are used for removing unwanted grime and dirt from the skin and coat. But shampooing, without sealing the coat afterward, leaves the hair shaft open and this allows residue to enter and oils and hydration to escape," Guerra says. He also states that conditioning the dog's coat after shampooing closes the hair cuticle and restores hydration, moisture, and elasticity, ensuring that the dog's coat is healthy and attractive.

The company offers updates on their various products, as well as a chance to connect with other pet owners on their official Facebook page at <https://www.facebook.com/healthycleanpet>. They state that interested pet owners can also learn more about the benefits of using their all-natural dog conditioner on their official website.

Guerra says that conditioning a dog's coat is essential between washes or even instead of washes in some cases. The company states that keeping the dog's skin hydrated will help to ward off many skin conditions that can cause extreme itching and flaking, as well as more serious health concerns.
