New York, New York - Recovering from a tummy tuck is a lengthy process and Dr. Kaufman of Discreet Plastic Surgery explains that it may take some time before a patient can return to his or her regular workout routine. He recently posted a new blog that gives tips to help abdominoplasty patients know what exercises are safe during recovery.

The doctor explains that it is usually safe to workout the lower body and even participate in mild cardio workouts that do not overexert the core after the first month after the procedure. He also offers professional advice on when it is safe to move on to more intense workouts.

Dr. Kaufman?s blog is meant to educate his readers and prospective patients about cosmetic surgery. This includes offering valuable advice to patients as they heal after a procedure. Knowing how to recover helps the patient get everything in order before they visit the doctor so their home will be ready for them when they return.

More information about a variety of cosmetic procedures can be found on the blog at
