Tucson, Arizona based company, Healthy Clean Pet, has announced the launch of their latest product. The company has recently introduced a new leave in conditioner and detangler for dogs to add to their existing pet products.

Gustavo Guerra with the company says, "Healthy Clean Pet's new Leave-in Conditioner and Detangler Spray is a top rated leave in dog conditioner and tangle remover on the market, and is scientifically developed to provide the best coat care for dogs as well as cats."

Guerra states that the new product is designed to provide benefits to dog owners as well as groomers. He explains that the daily combing of pets is recommended to keep them clean and healthy, and that the new natural dog detangler spray helps to detangle knots in the coat and makes it easier to groom dogs and cats on a daily basis.

"This is an all-natural product," says Guerra. "It helps to detangle as well as condition and moisturize the skin, which promotes healthier skin and coat for pets."

Guerra points out that the new conditioner will not only control the quality of pet's hair, it is environmentally friendly as it contains only natural ingredients such as oatmeal and aloe vera. The company states that these ingredients help to keep pets healthy while they protect the environment from dangerous chemicals.

The company has indicated that like humans, pets need products that are safe for them to use and those that promote wellness. They point out that by using natural products that do not contain harmful chemicals or other similar ingredients, pet owners and groomers are offering pets the best chance at a long and healthy life. Healthy Clean Pet was established in 2012 with the purpose of providing natural, safe pet products to owners and groomers. The company is owned by pet owners and provides nothing but natural products for dogs and cats.

Pet owners interested in learning more about the new detangler and leave in conditioner and its benefits can visit the company on their official website where detailed information is provided on this and other natural products that they offer.
