Pensacola, FL - Professional quilting and sewing products company Martelli Enterprises shares how creating an environment where recognition for quality can benefit the prosperity of any business. The Pensacola quilting company notes how positive recognition translates to positive results in any environment. This principle maintains morale and retains employees, allowing for a business to flourish and stay ahead of the competition.

?Empowerment works as a double-positive relationship where everyone wins,? the owner of Martelli Enterprises said. ?When a manager recognizes a worker, the worker is proud, but so is the manager to have that person on their team.?

While a monetary gift is spent, and forgotten, a gift or award acts as a reminder of achievement and lives on in the heart and mind of the recipient for years to come. The Pensacola sewing table provider understands that the foundation for success is based on motivation and appreciation. The company found that appreciation and recognition are among two of the top principles people value in their job. That is why Martelli Enterprises states that rewarding an employee with cash reduces efficiency, as it lacks personal touch and emotion.

?We believe in the importance of recognition. Recognition is rewarding positive behavior to get that behavior repeated. The benefit in eliciting desired behavior from staff, students and volunteers is enormous.? the owner of Martelli Enterprises said.
