December 08, 2016 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

The Small Business Saturday event is an effort to draw attention to small, local businesses, giving them a chance to compete in the cut throat world of enterprise. In an effort to help small businesses become more successful by enabling them to focus on the things that they are good at, John McKinney of Mount McKinney has started to offer essential web services for small businesses, starting this Small Business Saturday. Exact details of the services can be obtained at <http://mountmckinney.com/services/>.

John McKinney explains: "Small businesses have always had to work so much harder in order to get their name out there. Thanks to the internet, they are technically on a level playing field with Fortune 500 companies in terms of available methods to get their name out there. In reality, however, they don't have the time, the expertise, or the manpower. That is where we come in. We can focus on the entire online element of a small businesses so that businesses can focus on their own niche and do what they do best."

As part of the Small Business Saturday event, Mount McKinney has highlighted the different services that they now offer. These include web development and design, monthly website care plans, monthly WordPress care plans, logo design, and quick fixes. Most of these plans are subscription plans with easy to understand monthly prices. People can also sign up to a yearly plan, in which case they also receive two months for free.

McKinney adds: "One of the things we pride ourselves on is our affordability. We want to make sure that small businesses can afford us, and also that our work brings them a return on investment. This Small Business Saturday, this is our way of hoping that all enterprises have a fair chance of becoming great."

Mount McKinney already has an impressive database of past customers who have all been very happy with the results of the company's work. The fact that they have now put such a focus on giving back to the community as well, shows their commitment to the success of a company.
