January 06, 2017 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Bugs Or Us in Houston, Texas, reports that they are now considered the number one Houston pest control provider. The company offers guaranteed removal of pests at very competitive prices.

Prices vary depending on the kind of pest control needed but typically range around $69.96 for residential pest removal. The company indicates that the price for commercial pest control depends on the total square footage of the area being treated and is typically at $89.95 for 2000 square feet.

"Our goal is and has always been to offer supreme services at affordable prices," says Calvin, a spokesperson for Bugs Or Us. "This is why we have been considered the best in our industry in Houston for many years, and why we continue to see referrals from our loyal customers."

Calvin states that the company has been providing exterminators Houston residents are very much in need of for a number of years and that they have always catered to the needs of their customers. He says, "You just don't get to the level of success we have reached by not putting your customers first. We guarantee that we'll remove whatever pests are in your way, and our entire team is extensively trained and skilled at what they do."

The company states that their technicians always go as quickly as they can to homes and businesses and work to eliminate pests thoroughly and quickly. Bugs Or Us uses up to date and innovative technology including environmentally friendly pest elimination as well as traditional chemical treatments to rid homes and businesses of a number of pests and rodents.

The company states that they provide bug and rodent removal Houston customers have been requiring for the long term, and says that they have serviced many of the same customers for years. Their ranking as top provider in the area for their industry, they state, is based on the relationships that they have built with customers over the past few years.

The company says that their dedication to customer satisfaction is unwavering and that they guarantee, insure, and license every service provided. Those interested can learn more about the company and the long list of pests that they help to eradicate by visiting them online.
