September 21, 2015 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Soothing Lotus, a company based in Phoenix, AZ, has today launched a brand new electric aromatherapy diffuser. The premium Soothing Lotus ultrasonic oil diffuser allows people to enjoy the various benefits of essential oils. It is currently available from Amazon and it is expected to fly off the shelves.

"The Soothing Lotus ultrasonic oil diffuser is an excellent product for those looking to soothe their mind, body or soul," says Krysti H. from Soothing Lotus.

The diffuser is incredibly easy to use. It helps to turn the environment in which it is placed into a calm and relaxing environment almost instantly. It is also for this reason that the device has been popular in every room of peoples homes, but also in offices. The stress of day to day life can be significantly reduced by enjoying the scents of some well-chosen essential oils.

Soothing Lotus also prides itself on the fact that the device is eco-friendly. It is 100% free of BPA, which means it can be placed in any environment, regardless of any preexisting allergies or even life choices. The diffuser releases a cooling mist at regular intervals. It also comes with an automatic shut off function.

Furthermore, as the device is available on Amazon, shoppers are fully protected. Finally, Soothing Lotus has offered a 100% thrilled customer guarantee. It seems that this is just one of the benefits that customers enjoy, as various product reviews show how well the diffuser itself has been received.

"I never owned or used a diffuser before," says one Amazon product reviewer. "I'm so happy I purchased this diffuser by Soothing Lotus. It's very lightweight and easy to use as you follow along with the directions on the little booklet it comes with. I love all the led colored light choices and that you can choose which colored light to keep on. I decided to use my Lavender Oil and that not only filled my living room with a beautiful scent but it also relaxed my senses."

The device comes with a 4+ hour water tank, to which users can add drops of essential oil. The oil they choose depends entirely on their personal needs and requirements. For those who need some stress relief, for instance, lavender, frankincense, rose, chamomile and vanilla would be very good scents to use. These are particularly beneficial in the offices of high powered individuals. This is because they create instant relaxation in a stressful environment, allowing people to work harder without experiencing a burnout.

Similarly, some people may feel they need a boost of energy, rather than relaxation. In this case, oils such as peppermint and spearmint or any citrus type oil (lemon, orange, petitgrain, grapefruit, bergamot or neroli) work very well. These scents are natural stimulants that provide an instant boost of stamina.

Soothing Lotus is keen to play a part in making the world a happier, healthier place. With their electronic aromatherapy diffuser, they hope to achieve just that. With such positive product reviews, it is likely that they will achieve it as well.
