Miracle Shelves in Orlando, Florida, has announced the successful launch of their pull out shelving. The company recently stated that they are now shipping custom cut shelving kits or standard sized shelving kits to do-it-yourselfers throughout the nation.

The company launched in early January, 2017, offering a product that allows do it yourself handymen to retrofit their own shelving solutions. The company states that they currently have shelving kits that can fit all standard bathroom, kitchen, and other home storage spaces, and offer depth sizes of three, five, and seven inch walls.

"We are very pleased with how well our shelving kits have been received by the public," says RJ Shaw, owner and operator of the company. "Our DIY miracle shelves are just what you need to solve those storage solutions without spending a fortune on custom home renovations."

Shaw states that the company also plans to roll out more products in the upcoming months, and states that customers should check back with them often to learn about these new products and when they will be available to the public.

"Our shelves are perfect for those who like to do things for themselves," Shaw states. "You can save literally thousands of dollars by installing your own shelving system as opposed to hiring a contractor to do it for you. There is no need to worry because they are really easy to install."

Shaw states that a retrofit to existing cabinets allows for complete customization of the shelving system, and customers can cut and assemble their shelving to fit their unique space needs. He states that commercial customers can also use the shelving systems, which help to easily rotate the product, a particularly beneficial aspect for those in the food industries. He states that they are designed to be useful in a number of industries as well as residential units.

While Shaw did not state what new products would follow the successful launch of the miracle shelving units, he did state that those interested in keeping up with the company's future product plans can do so on their official website at MiracleShelves.com, where the shelving units can also be ordered.
