

Mercer Hughes Property Management Expands Services to Meet Growing Valdosta Rental Market Demand

November 05, 2025

Valdosta, Georgia - November 05, 2025 -
Mercer Hughes Real Estate Group has expanded its services with a dedicated property management division in Valdosta, Georgia, responding to the increasing demand for professional rental property management in the South Georgia region. The expansion addresses a critical need for reliable property management services as the local rental market continues to grow.

The property management division offers comprehensive services including tenant screening, rent collection, property maintenance, and financial management for single-family homes, condos, and investment rental properties throughout Valdosta and surrounding areas. The expansion leverages the company's extensive local market knowledge and established real estate presence to provide specialized management services for property owners and investors.

"We don't just manage properties, we manage investments. With more than 100 years of combined local experience, a proven tenant pipeline, and transparent communication, our property management team is built to maximize returns and minimize stress for Valdosta property owners," said Dedra Hughes, representative of Mercer Hughes Property Management.

The decision to establish a dedicated property management division came after recognizing a gap in the local market for quality, professional property management services. As Valdosta experiences continued growth and an influx of both local and out-of-state investors, the need for experienced property managers who understand the unique dynamics of the South Georgia rental market has become increasingly apparent.

The property management team provides full-service rental management, handling everything from initial tenant placement through ongoing maintenance coordination. Using state-of-the-art property management software, the company offers real-time online portals for both property owners and tenants, streamlining communication and ensuring transparency in all transactions.

The division specializes on serving military families and out-of-state investors, recognizing the unique challenges these groups face when managing rental properties. As a certified military-friendly business, Mercer Hughes Property Management understands the specific needs of military personnel who may be deployed or relocated frequently.

Property owners working with the management division benefit from thorough tenant screening processes that include comprehensive credit and background checks, ensuring responsible and reliable tenants occupy their properties. The company's maintenance coordination services include regular property inspections and prompt attention to repair needs, protecting owners' investments while maintaining property values.
