Summit Comedy, Inc. in Charlotte, North Carolina, has announced that they have just crossed over their 19th year in business. The company was formed in 1998 and it is now one of the largest comedy entertainment suppliers in the nation.

"We are all so pleased to have reached our 19th year in business," says company spokesperson Chuck Johnson. "It's been a great couple of decades and we are all looking forward to the next 19 years."

Summit Comedy, Inc. provides comedians for a number of events, holiday parties, nightclubs, colleges, country clubs, and various other occasions. The company states that they can book anywhere in the nation, supplying Summit Comedy comedians that include hypnotists, speakers, celebrity comedians, ventriloquists, magicians, and others. Johnson says that one reason the company has been in business for so long is because of the way they take care of each and every client.

"We always make booking your entertainer as easy and stress-free as possible," Johnson states. "Whether you need someone for the first ever event for a corporation or you really want to bring the house down at an annual gig, we have the entertainer for you and we'll make booking him or her smooth and efficient."

The organization has been previously in the news for the professionals that they have added to their lineup. Johnson states that they book only the most entertaining and professional people available, and says that they can cater to any event, professional or personal.

The company's official website offers a look at the comedy entertainment that they offer and lists the specific professionals that they work with. They also provide photographs of the event on their official Instagram page, and encourage event coordinators to reach out to them at any time to see clips of their performers.

Those looking to book entertainment for an upcoming event can contact the company directly through their website or any of their social media channels. They offer a mailing list that provides more information and updated lists of entertainers for those who would like to keep up with any new developments within the company as well.
