February 11, 2017 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

The Lars Group and Elrod Real Estate Experts recently announced that the two agencies had their teams joining together to form High Performance Real Estate Agency. The Charlotte real estate agents state that the joining of both agencies is something that will benefit the agencies themselves as well as their clients.

Lars Hedenborg is the former owner of The Lars Group and one of the new owners of High Performance Real Estate Agency. Hedenborg says, "We look at everything with a team mindset. We combined these two companies believing that together, our teams could help more homeowners in North Carolina to sell their homes and ultimately live the American dream."

Hedenborg says that High Performance Real Estate is built on the notion that achieving goals and gaining results have to do with the teams dominating the real estate industry and this can only be done by working together. He says that the company was built to offer full time agency services to clients, and the team has sales, marketing, and operations professionals that work together to deliver results.

"We truly have the best real estate agents Charlotte NC can have," Hedenborg says. "Each member of our team has a specialized role and they know what those roles entail. You aren't getting people who are acting like agents or marketers. You are getting people who are experts in these fields so you know they are going to do a great job."

The real estate agent states that while other agencies use a one man approach to selling or buying homes, High Performance uses the entire team to ensure complete client satisfaction. With more than 30 professionals, Hedenborg says that their team is stronger than any other in the area and states that they can offer effective assistance for those who are researching how to "sell my house fast Charlotte NC".

Hedenborg states that each person on the team is considered an expert in his or her position, and that by utilizing these specialties, the agency can focus more on satisfactorily completing each specific step in the selling process to ensure results that are more than satisfactory for clients.
