Choosing a professional moving company is important so that the challenging task of moving one's precious instrument is done with ease and expertise. Office Movers are thoroughly experienced in making office and residential moves including large furnishing like pianos or spas and swimming pools. Barber adds that their furniture trucks, are designed to accommodate the larger furnishings and their experienced personnel make sure that the move is smooth and stress free. He continues to say that his team of technicians are experienced, certified and completely trustworthy professionals. The staff members are thoroughly checked for their efficiency and trust worthiness before they are taken on board. Barber assures that customers? pianos will be handled with extreme care and delivered intact to their new location.

?We are a professional team of piano movers,? says Barber. ?Our team is fully equipped to handle the heavy items. We make sure that the heavy items are securely packed before they are transported from the old to the new location. Customer?s complete satisfaction is of utmost importance to us.?

Barber adds that his company offers a very competitive quote which does not have any hidden charges. The company does not add any extra fees or costs even if there are any heavier items to move. He says that their moving specialists are physically fit and in top shape as fitness is a prerequisite for moving heavier items.

This Auckland owned and operated company have proved themselves adept in moving both residential and commercial items. They offer their customers the most affordable prices for their moving needs. Items like pianos need proper care and maintenance. This team understands the stress and inconvenience moving can create, especially with bulkier and sensitive items like pianos. Pianos need to be handled extra carefully due to these constraints. Special care must be taken to carefully pack them and move them from one location to another. It must be ensured that the finish is not scratched and the keys are protected. Jostling around a piano or bumping it could cause damage to the piano. It could untune the piano which would require professional service to tune it again. Barber says that his technicians all know how to carefully and properly prepare even the most expensive pianos for moving. They resultant move from one location to another is without damage and worries of needing to retune the piano.

Barber?s team is readily available to provide a quote for any moving service that customers may need. The quote will help the customers get an opportunity to know how much their moving will cost. Since the quote is a no obligation free quote it helps the customers to arrive at a decision regarding the services they can utilise. The company?s website gives more information about their specific services and details their experiences in moving pianos, spa pools and other larger items. Those who are interested can contact the moving company through their website or directly by email or phone, or visit them in their trademe service page to get more information about their past services as well as their new service areas.
