Chantilly, Va. ? Award Crafters, a leading awards supplier in Chantilly, VA, has just recently attended the 2017 International Awards & Personalization Expo in Las Vegas. During the conference, the Award Crafters team was given a great opportunity to learn about new industry trends.

The International Awards & Personalization Expo, held every February in Las Vegas, is one of the prime events of the year for awards industry experts. It?s an opportunity to garner valuable business tips, connect with other professionals, and brainstorm unique product ideas. Award Crafters got a good taste of the experience and is satisfied with the bite of knowledge.

?I can?t tell you how many valuable tips we picked up at this event, but our customers we?ll definitely be able to notice the improvements in the months coming,? Jim Munden said.

The awards industry is one not to be taken lightly. The demand for high-quality recognition items is high, especially in a competitive job market. Awarding employees for their hard work and dedication to a company?s goals and objectives is the prime reason why most employees stay so long and remain diligent in their careers.

The International Awards & Personalization Expo is a wonderful opportunity to delve deeper into the cause of promoting employee accomplishments. Thanks to the privilege of being able to attend the awards expo, the awards store in Chantilly, VA, can rest easy knowing that the skills of the team have been polished and refined by the help of neighboring industry professionals.

?Attending this expo really gave us the chance to learn so much from other industry leaders on how to create items that resonate with and represent employees,? Jim Munden said.
