June 16, 2015 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

iExplore, a business in Boca Raton, FL, has released their iPhone selfie pole on Amazon. The pole had been available for a short period of time before, but it sold out so quickly that iExplore simply couldn't keep up with demand. However, they have now restocked and expect to be able to serve all customers.

"We couldn't believe how quickly we sold out of our selfie pole for iPhone", says Vicent David. "We knew it was good, otherwise we wouldn't have sold it, but for it to have picked up that quickly was more than even we could have expected. We really apologize to all our customers who weren't able to get one before, which is why we are now offering it for just $21.97, a saving of 45% for a limited time only."

The selfie pole was clearly incredibly popular and it is understood that this is because of its amazing quality. iExplore is one of the only vendors on Amazon that backs up their selfie pole with a 100% guarantee. They know that their pole will not break and if it does, customers can have the stick replaced immediately.

"We also give samples for review for bloggers, just email us why you and your audience are a good fit for the iexplore brand", adds Vicent David. "Send us an email at iexploreusa@gmail.com and get your selfie stick now."

The selfie stick is fully collapsible and expandable, which means it is very easy to take with you and carry to different locations. It is a Bluetooth selfie stick and has been designed specifically with Vloggers in mind. Vlogging is becoming increasingly popular, as is taking selfies and iExplore is trying to combine these two new trends into one, easy to use, high quality selfie stick.

The stick comes with a built in wireless remote control to make it easy to take photographs or start filming. Because it is expandable, it is perfect to take group photographs as well. Indeed, it extends to as much as three and a half feet. The pole is fully rechargeable so that it will always work. Furthermore, although designed for iPhone versions 4 to 6, it also fits many other popular devices, including the Galaxy Note and HTC One to name but a few.

When the device first sold out, buyers also left highly positive reviews. "I'm a tech guru and I love anything to do with tech", says Daren Mason. "This is a great product and works just as described. It came well packaged and the build quality is great." iExplore has stocked up significantly so that they will no longer run out of products to send to their customers.
