

Personal Injury Attorney In Augusta Helps Clients Win In Court

September 18, 2019

September 18, 2019 -
Kenneth S. Nugent, P.C. in Augusta GA, one of the most successful personal injury practices in the area, recently discussed the secrets behind their success and advised the community on the best traits they should look for in an attorney. The firm has helped hundreds of individuals by representing their best interests in court, guiding them through difficult times during which most individuals are under stress and at a loss for options.

The company takes great pride in the highly successful professional history that they have developed in Augusta. They claim that this is one of their most successful offices, and they maintain that they value their client's success above all else. Tim Derrickson, a spokesperson for the local firm, states, "At Kenneth S. Nugent, P.C, our foremost priority is to represent our clients effectively in court. We meet them in a time of great need, where they are under a lot of stress. They need reassurance and professional advice, both of which we can provide in equal measure. In the end, we owe our success to our clients?for trusting us and allowing us to represent them in court."

As the firm notes, the first few days after an accident are very stressful for the victim and their relatives. The amount of paperwork that insurance companies require to fill, alongside any other responsibilities that they may have, can be enough to overwhelm anybody. The firm offers their legal representation services in order to provide guidance and assistance to clients in such situations.

The firm states that they will handle every legal aspect of their client's case, clarifying that this includes the extensive paperwork, insurance claims, and the statements required to pursue legal actions on a personal injury case. By doing this, they allow their clients to be at ease, knowing that they have qualified professionals looking after their best interests. Until the last day of the court appointment, the firm assures clients that they will be gathering all of the information that may be relevant in court. All of this is done to give their clients the best chance at securing financial compensation for their injuries, which will ensure their well-being and full recovery from the accident.

The Augusta GA Office of Kenneth S. Nugent, P.C, shares one of the best initiatives that they have implemented in their other locations, which is their free case evaluations. Derrickson affirms, "Our commitment towards helping is not limited to our clients. We want to help the whole community, which is why we provide free consultations. We review our prospective client's case and provide expert advice on the possibilities that they have of finding success through legal actions. Through this initiative, we minimize the cases where clients spend significant sums of money pursuing legal actions that bear no fruit."

Through these case evaluations, the firm also seeks to minimize the cases in which personal injury victims choose an inexperienced individual to represent them in court. The firm encourages their prospective clients to engage with an experienced attorney that specializes in personal injury cases.

Kenneth S. Nugent, P.C. is widely known for the immense commitment and effort that they place on helping the community. The firm has managed to gather a large number of success stories and positive feedback from their clients on the Google review platform, where they enjoy an outstanding review score of 4.4/5 Stars.

One of their most recent reviews narrates the case of Courtney K., who shares that, "The attorneys at Kenneth S. Nugent were exceptionally kind and helpful throughout my case. I had already worked with other firms in the past, who took a long time to secure a settlement. Kenneth's firm was nothing like this, as it only took them a couple of months to obtain my compensation. Overall, they are a great company to work with, and I recommend them to anyone in need of a reliable Augusta Personal Injury Attorney."
