March 20, 2017 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Tires To You is continuing its expansion plans with a goal of a Hutto, Texas store opening within a year. Further expansion goals will add franchises elsewhere in Texas.

Austin TX: Tires To You and Clint Collins, General Manager, are excited to announce that their corporate franchise is continuing their efforts to expand their presence throughout Texas. The company was founded in Austin, TX as a small private-ownership firm. The company has carried the personal attention to customers and dedication to quality products and services throughout its expansion efforts. The location of the third store has been identified as Hutto, in order to reach the customer base in that area.

Speaking to an interview recently, Clint Collins, Gen. Mgr explained, "We want each and every customer to feel welcome in every one of our tire stores. Our employees are dedicated to make you feel like family in each transaction. We want to be more than just another tire store."

Quality in products, tires and services provided by the company's employees are expected by customers, as well as by the company philosophy. The contribution of the employees is a part of the dedication and values which each member of the professional team displays. It is the efforts of the employees which have allowed the store openings to proceed according to plans. The most recent opening occurred in Killeen, Texas, with great celebration.

In addition to a wide range of tires and tire-related products, the company location also provide services to customers. These include free tire rotations and free wheel washing. The prices are affordable and there is a significant mileage warranty provided with tire options. Customers can arrange for quick financing, thanks to SNAP Finance.

A recent customer, B.K, spoke about the company, "When I went into the store, I was greeted by friendly and knowledgeable people. The explanations and suggestions were clear and concise, without being overwhelming. I never felt pushed into a purchase of one brand over another. The financing process was also fast and easy.?
