Riverside, California based 1-800-Biz-Broker has announced a new addition to their team. The company recently stated that Michael Saunders would be joining them as a business broker.

Pablo Fonseca is a representative for the company and had this to say, "Michael Saunders, who is from Dallas, just joined our group of business brokers. He is our newest licensee and will represent 1-800-Biz-Broker in the Dallas metro area of Texas."

Saunders is a member of the Texas Association of Business Brokers and has more than 24 years of experience in business ownership as well as 15 years of experience in real estate sales and development. He had established several companies, successfully growing them into leaders in their respective industries. Selling those companies, he gained a comprehensive understanding of the concerns that business owners face when selling their businesses and the need for a business broker with experience in business sales to assist them throughout the process.

"Michael was a buyer himself, so he not only knows the ins and outs of selling a business, he can assist those who also want to buy a new business," says Fonseca.

Fonseca says that Saunders' extensive background enables him to choose an effective marketing plan that is customized to each business. He states that his understanding of the needs and motivation of business owners will make him a strong asset to the 1-800-Biz-Broker team, ensuring that each client experiences a smooth transaction and a satisfactory result.
