The company recently announced that Frank Scivally has just joined the group and will represent buyers and sellers of businesses in the state of Washington.

"Frank is an amazing business broker in Washington and will be a strong asset to our team," says Pablo Fonseca, an official representative of the brokerage company.

Scivally is a veteran, having served in the United States Air Force where he received five commendations, three service medals and the Bronze Star for service performed during Operation Desert Storm. He was named one of the Most Outstanding Men in America in 1982.

"He has experience teaching business and management classes," says Fonseca. "He was president of two publicly traded companies and used to own a retail franchise as well as a business brokerage company that served the entire state of Arizona."

Scivally, in addition to being a retired Air Force Officer, is an MS and MBA degree holder, and a university professor in addition to being a commercial and business broker and a business coach and advisor. He entered business brokering in 2003 on a full time basis and affiliated with the Business Brokers Network in 2004. Scivally possesses many years of experience brokering businesses and ensures clients that he will be with them throughout the entire buying or selling process. He begins his process with a business value estimate and overview of the steps involved in selling. For buyers, he states that he begins with qualifying a business to meet financial goals.
