SandSecured.com announces its patented new beach towel design that includes 6 pockets and gives the beach goer the ability to fasten the towel to the sand. As simple as it is genius, the revolutionary design solves the age old problems plaguing millions of annual beach goers looking to enjoy the sand but who don't want their towel to be blown away by the wind. The towel pockets also allow the storage of items you want to keep close by that you can get to without having to get up from the towel yet still keep protected from the sun.

Based out of one of the most famous beach communities in the world West Palm Beach FL, Sand Secured Corporation produces a unique product that is already in very high demand locally and now nationally as the benefits of the towel are spreading through the beaching crowd like wildfire.

"After years of dabbling with my concept," says founder and CEO Paul "The Towel Man" Schwartz, "I am proud to offer this novel approach to beach towel usage. I hope you, the beach lover, find as much satisfaction and utility in my uniquely designed beach towels as I envisioned."

The original idea occurred to Paul in 1983 while he was at a park outside Miami, Florida. Paul saw many beach goers struggling with their towels, victimized by the wind and blowing sand and thought there had to be a better way. When a change in careers presented itself a few years later, Paul "The Towel Man" Schwartz decided to take the idea he had to solve the beach towel challenges for millions from his imagination to a reality. Since then his towels and designs have become more and more popular.

"After many years nowhere has this idea or product been found that is similar to mine. There's nothing even close to my invention anywhere," says the Towel Man. "Sand Secured products are unlike any other products sold in the USA or Internationally."

Being the recipient of a patent for its unique design and qualities, the towels are so versatile they can be used anywhere including outside events, lake vacations, fireworks shows, parks and birthday parties just to name a few of the ways customers can benefit from the Sand Secured patented six pocket beach towels.

Paul "The Towel Man" Schwartz is so sure that you will love his unique beach towels that he offers a full no questions asked 30 day 100% money back guarantee, making the decision to try the towels risk free for the beach going community.

Due to the growing popularity, Paul is considering offering the towels on Amazon.com in the coming months to help beach towel users' world-wide experience the benefits of his award winning towels.

As Paul puts it, "Our customers often comment about how large, bright and colorful our towels are" but what they love even more is that they are so easy to set up and how well they work when you are at the beach."
