West Warwick, RI -- Trinity Leads, a digital media lead generation marketing agency, with offices in West Warwick, RI, are happy to announce two new aspiring team members.

Just a few months ago, Amanda Crandall of Coventry, RI a content copywriter and junior web designer joined the company. Crandall, a freelance content writer for many online agencies, continues to grow in her profession every day. She has recently been named Trinity Leads copy and content editor. "Her dedication to the agency will be a valuable asset moving forward," says owner, Mark Casey.

New to the team is Samantha Streeper, a student at the University of Rhode Island. She was recently selected to join Trinity Leads, as an intern. Streeper is a communications major, business minor, a seemingly perfect fit for Trinity Leads. She will join the team to begin her internship by learning to write creative copy, web design, and assist the company and their clients while earning college credits.

"I'm ecstatic to be joining the team, this type work has been my dream and getting real hands-on experience will be extremely beneficial," said Streeper, "Trinity Leads is a unique digital marketing agency and I'm honored to have been selected for this opportunity."

With clients/partners across the United States, with some in Ireland and Australia; Trinity Leads provides custom marketing services for their clients. "Every partner, I like to refer to clients as partners because that's what we truly are, joins a customer centric focused company here. This commitment is very important to us," says Casey. "Our goal is to provide a positive ROI for our partners."
