Phoenix, AZ - As healthcare professionals, the dedicated nurses and staff of Express Healthcare Professionals of Phoenix have always had a focus on providing superior care to patients. With the growing number of cases of the novel coronavirus (COVID-19), this Phoenix caregiver provider has further solidified their dedication to the community contributing their staffing services to combat the novel coronavirus.[MV1]

?We are doing what we do best ? helping hospitals and clinics manage their workforces. And we intend to continue to provide this essential support throughout this ever-changing situation,? said Franchise Manager, Holly Cruz.

According to the World Health Organization, the coronavirus is a contagious respiratory illness that originated in Wuhan, China, and could prove fatal to susceptible populations. Those over the age of 40 or with weakened immune systems are most vulnerable to serious illness from the virus. Common symptoms of the coronavirus are fever, cough, and difficulty breathing, and it is most commonly transmitted through coughing and sneezing.

During this unprecedented time, there is one certainty: As the premier medication aid supplier in Phoenix, Arizona, Express Healthcare Professionals stands ready to help Arizona [MV2] put people to work. Currently taking on two to three new healthcare client partners each week, the staff at Express Healthcare Professionals is working around the clock to provide over 400 essential healthcare nurses, medical assistants, respiratory therapists and staff at hospitals and clinics throughout our communities.

?We are experiencing a significant increase in demand for our respected services to provide temporary, contract and permanent clinicians who are experienced and credentialed healthcare professionals,? said Holly Cruz. ?I am extremely proud of our team and our frontline clinicians who have answered the call to support our local hospitals and clinics during this unprecedented time,? she added.

Express Healthcare Professionals of Phoenix continues to monitor advisories from public health agencies such as the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) and the World Health Organization (WHO) and gather information from our industry partners. We are taking steps to ensure our preparedness continues --as further scenarios arise.

Since inception in 2019, Express has demonstrated a commitment to providing world-class service to our clients and healthcare experts. Now, more than ever, they reaffirm that commitment and unwavering support.
