July 06, 2017 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Metals 28, a nickel alloy and special stainless service center in Bellwood, IL, is proud to announce that they have recently launched their brand-new website. The website is Metals28.com and includes all relevant information about the company and the work they do. It also provides an opportunity for customers to request a new quote.

Robert Whitehouse from Metals 28 says: "People have high expectations of what they can do online, and how they can interact with companies, and we needed to respond to that. We are incredibly pleased with the results and have already heard positive comments from customers who love it as well."

Through www.metals28.com, clients can also find all the relevant contact details of the company. These include email and telephone, as well as the online quotation request form. Furthermore, details on the company's social media pages on Facebook, Twitter, and LinkedIn are also provided. Those channels have been launched as part of their new website and enabling clients to have direct communication with both Metals 28 and each other.

While the company has launched a new website, and embarked on a digital marketing campaign, their service offerings have remained unchanged. Known for their high processing capabilities and wide geographical service area, Metals 28 has been the go-to source for nickel alloy and special stainless services across the US and in Europe. Their European headquarters is based in Blackburn, United Kingdom, from where they offer the same high-quality services and processes. Robert Whitehouse says: "When you choose Metals 28, you will be working with an experienced team that has over 50 years of experience selling and purchasing materials from all over the world."

People are being encouraged to view their Facebook page, which provides additional information about the company and who they are. Robert Whitehouse adds: "Facebook is another new area of focus for us, and one that we are very enthusiastic about. We look forward to building strong relationships with all our clients, past, present, and future, and this is a fantastic medium to achieve that."
