Bariatric Mexico Surgery is a facilitator company in Tijuana, Mexico, that aims to educate people on their options for bariatric procedures. Their goal is to make sure that people are able to make the most informed decision when it comes to their weight loss journey. To assist with this, they have released a new BMI calculator on <https://www.bariatricmexicosurgery.com/?s=bmi>, enabling people to determine whether they should consider gastric surgery at all. The company wants to point out, however, that it is not a healthcare provider or medical facility, and therefore, people should consult their physician before making a decision.

Alma Orozco from Bariatric Mexico Surgery says: "We have added a new BMI calculator widget on our website. This enables people to determine whether they are potential candidates for bariatric surgery at all. We recommend that only those who are obese or above should consider this kind of surgery as part of their weight loss journey. Those who are overweight, by contrast, should consider other types of solutions."

To further help people make an informed decision, the company has also released a free e-book, "The Weight Is Over - Your Guide to Bariatric Surgery", which includes a number of the most frequently asked questions. This e-book is available to anyone who signs up for updates on the Bariatric Mexico Surgery website and is completely no obligation.

"The new e-book is a really good and informative guide for people who want to make a change in their lives," adds Alma Orozco. "If someone uses our BMI calculator and finds that they are overweight or obese, we recommend that they download it and find out everything they need to about whether or not they are a good candidate, the types of surgery that exist, how to prepare, what to expect, and the post-surgery diet."

The Bariatric Surgery Mexico website offers a wealth of other pieces of information for those who want to find out more about the ins and outs of the different forms of gastric surgery. The company hopes that, when someone does decide to take the step towards any form of bariatric procedure, they can do so with an informed mind, thereby choosing the option that is most suitable to them.
