May 27, 2020 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Fresh Page Home Improvements claims to be a company that?s always there to help out their customers. That?s why they want their customers to be aware of the steps that they need to take if they should ever suffer from storm or flood damage. These steps are designed to help a storm victim get the quickest possible resolution to their problem and help them secure their property from further damage in the meantime. This West Dundee, IL-based home improvement and roof repair contractor even offers 24/7 emergency assistance for those that need help right away after a storm has hit their area.

The company owner, Patrick Page, says, ?As we come into spring in the Dundee area, it?s a time of year where sudden and severe storms will pop up from time to time. These storms can result in damage to people?s roofs or even cause destructive amounts of water to seep into their homes. Whatever the case, we are here to help. Not only do we offer 24-hour storm damage assistance but we will also help our customers handle any claims on storm damages that are covered by their insurance policy. Our company is one that prides itself on doing business with integrity and we are known for being extremely dependable when our customers call us for storm damage help. We also use only the best tools, techniques, and tradesmen available to get your storm repair damage done quickly and done the right way the first time.?

Page says that when someone has received damage in a storm the first step that they should take is to call a specialist to come to help them start their recovery. Fresh Page Home Improvements specializes in helping storm victims that have roof damage, structural damage to their home or business, or have experienced flooding. The owner says that when a roof is involved the company will send a roofing specialist to inspect the damage just as soon as it?s safe to venture out. He says that some minor repairs may be done right away but larger repairs will most likely need to have supplies ordered. If the storm-damaged roof cannot be repaired right away the inspecting crew will cover the damaged area and make the roof as watertight as possible under the circumstances. Page emphasized that flood damage is something the customer never wants to wait on to make a call. The more time water acts on objects and surfaces the more damage it does. He says once again they will first inspect the storm-damaged area and then take immediate steps using advanced restoration equipment to get up as much water as possible and then start drying the premises out.

The company owner says that after a customer has made the call to them or another area company for emergency storm damage assistance, they should next call their insurance company immediately. Page says that a customer should do this regardless of whether or not a storm victim thinks that damage will be covered by insurance. He says the most an insurance company can do is say no, so it never hurts to try. The owner also says that he will help their customers out with every step of the storm damage insurance claim process.

This company is also known for going above and beyond when one of their customers experiences any type of storm damage to their home. Here is a review taken from the local Better Business Bureau website that backs this statement up; Kelly H. wrote, ?Patrick is an amazing roofer to work with. There was a large hailstorm that hit our house. Our insurance company said that our roof was fine. Patrick met the insurance company back out at our house and showed them the damage the hail had done to our roof. A few weeks later Patrick and his team replaced our roof and skylights. His team did a great job cleaning up too after the job was done. Patrick was great to work with. He answered all of our questions and kept us informed during the entire process. I would highly recommend Patrick to anyone looking to replace their roof.? Reviews like this also explain why Fresh Page Home Improvements has this business overwatch agency?s highest rating of A+.
