June 22, 2020 -
Sheffield based Apex Pest Control is reaching out to the community to announce that they have published a new article where they discuss the importance of safe wasp nest removal.

This article, published by Apex Pest Control on their blog, touches upon one of the most troubling topics that home and business owners in Sheffield have to contend with: wasp nests. These annoying, yet common bugs can cause mayhem around the home and office, and even though the solution is as easy as getting rid of their nest, this may be a more complicated endeavour than it seems at first.

"It is not an exaggeration to say that wasps can make life a living hell; getting rid of them is by no means an easy task. While an expert could safely remove it in less than a couple of hours, you should expect a bumpy ride if you are planning to remove it yourself," says Tony Johnson, a representative of Apex Pest Control. "Even if you take all the precautions necessary, wasps can get aggressive very quickly, and they will do anything possible to protect their nests. Getting stung at least a couple of times is a given. More importantly, once you have removed the nest, you have to figure out what you are going to do with a swarm of aggressive, homeless wasps roaming around."

Aside from being a nuisance, the aggressive nature of wasps can cause dangerous accidents for the person attempting the removal. Anyone unprepared to deal with the inevitable swarm of angry bugs is putting themselves in harm's way by attempting to remove a wasps' nest by themselves. The fastest and safest way to remove a wasps' nests is and will always be to rely on the expertise of a company that specialises in wasp nest removal.

"We are one of the most recommended wasp nest removal services in Sheffield," says Johnson. "We have worked for several years in the area, and with over 35 years of experience in the pest control industry, we have built a distinguished reputation that is based on our efforts, skills and reliability. We take pride in keeping homes, offices and factories free of wasp nests. We take pest control for wasps as seriously as the job deserves, and we will take care of your infestation professionally."

Apex Pest Control asserts that, by having a professional dealing with the wasp nest removal, the entire process is made significantly less complicated. They state that their team makes use of insecticides from some of the best manufacturers around the world, treating the infestation within a couple of hours without the property?s residents having to vacate the area.

Johnson says, "When called up for a wasp nest removal service, we make use of these insecticide powders, applying them directly to the wasps so that it sticks to their bodies and is in turn transported into their nests. With time, the dust gets to the queen bee, causing it to die along with the rest of the colony."

Once this is done, the company notes that they can also provide proofing services to ensure that such wasps do not find refuge in their customers? homes again. Without it, there are no guarantees that a new wasp colony will not find their way into the property once more, as wasp queens are constantly on the lookout for a new home every year. This is an issue that often peaks during the summer months in Sheffield, as this is when wasps nests are the most active.

In addition to wasp nest removal, Apex Pest Control's services include the safe removal of Bed Bugs, Black Ants, Cockroaches, Fleas and Mice, among several other pests that tend to find their way into their customers? homes. They also offer commercial and agricultural services, which are available in the Sheffield, Rotherham, Barnsley and Leeds areas.

The company's website offers more details on Apex Pest Control and its services. Interested parties may reach out to Tony Johnson to follow up on any of their inquiries as well. Additionally, the company can be reached through their social media pages.
