Online Visibility Pros, a digital marketing agency in Phoenix, AZ, has announced the launch of a new customer review software, known as MAXX Reviews. This has been designed to help businesses get more customer reviews online on the review websites of their choice. Furthermore, it will help them increase their overall review rating and their company's reputation can be greatly enhanced as a result.

Brian Horwitz from Online Visibility Pros says: "MAXX Reviews is a simple and effective software package that allows you to collect more positive 5-star reviews for your business while preventing negative reviews. This product is exploding in popularity and we're excited to help simplify the review process for as many of our business owner friends as possible."

The new customer review software has the ability to filter out negative reviews, while at the same time pushing four and five star reviews to the selected review websites. According to Online Visibility Pros, the system is easy to use. As soon as clients add their first contacts to their review system, an email drip sequence is triggered to ask for reviews automatically. Another way to gather reviews through the software is to request them in every email signature. The company wants to encourage people to see offer details on their website, which will be available throughout the month of August.

Brian Horwitz explains: "This is a "Done-For You" service which means we handle all of the heavy lifting for you. We take you by the hand and get you set up with your system so you can start collecting reviews. Once the set up is complete you'll be notified of any new reviews that come through so you or someone from your office can respond in a timely fashion."

Online Visibility Pros is one of the top online lead generation firms in the service industry. They have worked with various companies, successfully helping them to grow their online presence as well as their online reputation.
