Oklahoma City Mens Suits And Clothing Shop Announces New Store Location

September 05, 2017

September 05, 2017 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

The Ambassador Shop is a men's clothing store in Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, that caters to men who want to look their best. They have recently announced that they have moved their store to a new location. Loren Wilson, owner of The Ambassador Shop - Men's Clothing says, "Our original location was inside an older strip mall, which served us well for many years but we felt it was time for a change."

Wilson states that his new location is in the Shoppes at Quail Springs, which is a newer, upscale retail building on the corner of May and Memorial in Oklahoma City. "The space is actually a bit smaller," says Wilson. "But it does offer a much more state of the art retail space, which allows me to really showcase my wares."

Wilson says that the store's design allows him to showcase his collection of Italian suits, shirts and ties. He states that the new location is much more convenient and visible than the old one, which he says he hopes will make it easier for customers to find the store and shop with him.

Wilson has owned the Ambassador Shop since he purchased it from the previous owner nearly five years ago. Before that, the shop had been in operations for more than 40 years, having moved already twice. After he purchased the store, part of the retail development where it was housed caught fire and this prompted Wilson look for a new location to better offer convenience to his customers. Wilsons states, "You can keep up with all of the latest on our Facebook page."

The new location is a Mazaheri development and has been under construction for just over two years. Two businesses opened in the retail center early in July 2017 and aside from Wilson's men's clothing store, those are the only businesses currently in operation there. Wilson says that it is very evident that construction work is still undergoing in a number of other spaces, which means that more businesses will move in toward the end of the year. Those interested in learning more about the shop can visit it online or head to YouTube to watch a video and review Ambassador Shop.
