January 26, 2021 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Alpha Therapeutics, a CBD products manufacturer, is selling oils, gels, pain sticks, and balms infused with CBD for pain alleviation. The company is encouraging customers to explore its pharmaceutical quality CBD product range to find something that will help with their chronic pain.

The business of CBD has seen a meteoric rise in recent times thanks to the opening of regulations surrounding marijuana and increased consumer awareness. There is an open-minded interest in trying out alternative therapies amongst the general consumer. According to statistics, in 2019, the CBD industry by sales was sized at $5 billion dollars. By some estimates, it is projected to grow to $23.7 billion by 2023. Alpha Therapeutics is throwing its hat in the ring with its range of high-quality CBD products that come in different forms that can appeal to a broad range of consumers.

All of the company?s products are made in the USA. All the products are Broad Spectrum. It is an industry term that signifies the product contains a range of naturally occurring compounds from the cannabis plant. The products do not contain THC, the compound that makes the person feel 'high' or impaired. The company claims to harvest mature plants that are rich in CBD and young plants with large amounts of CBG to bring its consumers natural, raw, healthy benefits for optimum relief of chronic pain. Alpha Therapeutics products contain terpenes that demonstrate analgesic properties in clinical studies and flavonoids that have shown in research to contain powerful antioxidants and anti-inflammatory properties. All Alpha Therapeutics CBD oil products are organically farmed, lab-tested, non-impairing, vegan, gluten-free, and non-GMO.

Alpha Therapeutics uses the latest professional-grade lab technology to process the plants. Strict quality control is maintained throughout the product cycle from procurement to packaging. The raw materials are lab tested to ensure there are no heavy metals, pesticides, mold, or fungus on them. The final products are lab tested for purity and quality. Alpha Therapeutics uses a CO2 method to process the plant to ensure that the product is not filtered or heated in a way that could damage the plant. This ensures the highest quality ingredients in every product to preserve the ?entourage effect.?

The company?s CBD oil soft gels may be used to reduce inflammation, relieve pain, lower blood pressure in some people, relieve stress, increase the quality of sleep, reduce anxiety, and reduce depression. They are available in a package that contains 30 soft gels. The CBD and CBG are present in a 2:1 ratio with a weight of 25mg and 12.5 mg per soft gel. The package includes a tincture (dropper) that allows precise intake control. Each tincture has measurement labels to let the buyer know how much they are taking. Dr. Southwell, the founder of the company, says that his patients respond really well to a 50 to 100 mg dose for pain relief for 4 to 6 hours. The bottle is portable and easy to use.

A review of the company?s products from Atul P. says, ?I suffer from arthritis and other autoimmune problems. Alpha is so subtle that halfway thru the day I realize that - hey, it worked all morning! Lately, I started taking it two times a day and I can get thru the entire day. Unbelievable stuff!? Another review from Amile B. says, ?As a runner, I have aches and pains and sometimes sciatica from a herniated disc. Alpha takes off the edge and helps my body to repair and keep me on the road!? Another review from Sage Jordan says, ?Alpha CBD hit it out of the park! I no longer suffer from excruciating migraines. The doctors at Alpha have been incredible. Thank you for allowing me to live pain-free.?

Dr. Tyler Southwell says, ?We are on the cutting edge of the research surrounding CBD for pain relief. We are entering a brand new era when it comes to extracting the benefits from this wonderful plant. The progress we are making today is going to benefit generations to come. We feel honored to be at the forefront of this movement and our customers agree with us. We get a lot of feedback from them regarding our products and it brings us joy to listen to their success stories. If you are suffering from chronic pain, you should consider CBD based medication.?
