EXOUS Bodygear, a sports and outdoor fitness brand who recently launched their EX-701 performance knee support brace in February this year, has this week achieved a best-selling rank position of 6 on the amazon UK marketplace under the health and personal care and knee brace category.

The brand manager from EXOUS had the following to say "We are delighted with the improved best selling rank on amazon UK, we know it is a dynamic rank and can change daily up and down, but to be the 6th best selling neoprene knee support in only a few months of launching is testament to the quality and value of the product."

The full feature set of the EX-701 performance neoprene knee support with lateral stabilisers can be found on at the EXOUS Bodygear website

A spokesperson from the brand had the following statement after the news of the improving sales ranking on amazon "We are all very pleased, if you look at the EX-701 it has a lot of advanced features. The unique 4 way strap system is at the heart of the design, it makes the EX-701 very different to many of the other neoprene knee supports on the market giving really good adjustable compression, but at no compromise to comfort, which was the goal of the product when we launched it.

The EX-701 neoprene knee support can be purchased directly through amazon.co.uk and is backed by their customer service and returns policy for safe and secure transactions.
