

New Blog by Baltimore Plastic and Cosmetic Surgery Center Explains the Difference Between Botox and Dermal Fillers

Baltimore, MD - In a recent blog post, Dr. Schreiber of Baltimore Plastic and Cosmetic Surgery Center discussed the differences between two of the most popular facial rejuvenation treatments, dermal fillers and Botox. He explained that while many patients are familiar with the terms, they are not always sure of what makes each treatment unique.

The blog is meant to tell readers that although both treatments are meant to treat wrinkles and other signs of aging, they are typically used to target different parts of the face and use different substances to do so. The staff at Baltimore Plastic and Cosmetic Surgery Center hope that knowing the differences between Botox and dermal fillers before heading to the office will help patients decide which treatment is most in line with their goals.

Dr. Schreiber uses his platform on <http://www.baltimoreplasticsurgery.com> to educate the public about recent advances in plastic and cosmetic surgery. He explains that while there is a lot of information on the internet concerning cosmetic procedures, not all of it is reliable and he wanted to add the point of view of a professional to help guide his patients.

Dr. Jeffrey Schreiber performs everything from breast augmentation to facial rejuvenation in Baltimore. Anyone with questions regarding cosmetic surgery, including a facelift in Baltimore, or who would like to schedule a consultation can contact Baltimore Plastic Surgery.
