Genesis Tree Service, a company based in Fairfax, VA, has recently published a blog post that presents 7 questions to ask tree removal companies before hiring them. This is important because tree removal can be dangerous if it is not done properly. It has to be done by skilled and trained professionals who have the proper knowledge and equipment to safely remove a tree. The homeowner or property owner can be held liable if the work done by the tree service company is not done properly and an accident occurs. That is why asking these 7 questions is essential before hiring a particular tree removal company.

The first question has to do with the length of time that the tree removal company has been in business. This provides the homeowner or property owner with an idea with regards to the length of experience that they have. The second question is whether the company has liability insurance with adequate coverage in case there is an accident. The third question ensures that the company has a list of references or reviews to allow the homeowner or property owner to verify their experience. The fourth question ensures that they have the necessary equipment for performing the tree removal work safely.

The fifth question to ask is whether the company will be doing the job themselves or whether they will be using subcontractors. If they are using subcontractors, it may also be a good idea to check on their experience and skills. In the sixth question, the tree services company is asked what particular steps will they be taking to ensure that damage to the yard is kept to a minimum. And finally, the seventh question asks whether they offer detailed estimates and whether the pricing will include other services if required. This is important to ensure that there would be no surprise charges after the work has been started.
