Florida Licensed Building Contractor Michael Crowe has taken his custom-designed wine cellar building skills public with the launch of his new website <http://yourwinecellarman.com>.

Crowe is ?Your Wine Cellar Man?, and has more than a quarter-century of experience in construction. Along with highlighting his expertise in wine-cellar construction, the website showcases Crowe?s house-building portfolio.

Crowe can design and build wine cellars in Florida, Massachusetts (also a licensed contractor in Massachusetts) and across America, according to the site. These cellars can accommodate any size wine collection.

The company has constructed custom wine cellars complete with custom wine racks and custom wine cabinets made from a variety of woods, including beautiful wood species redwood, mahogany, knotty alder, and red oak.

Leveraging Vintage View's label forward design, Crowe's company has expanded its design capabilities, and can incorporate Vintage View's distinctive metal wine racks with traditional wooden wine racks.

To prevent spoilage, the company can also apply its proprietary stain, which is made exclusively for custom wine cellars, custom wine racks, and custom wine cabinets.

A Massachusetts native, Crowe cut his construction teeth in the carpentry program at Cape Cod Tech. It was there that he learned cabinetry, home construction and home remodeling. In 1995 he struck out on his own, growing his skills from small remodeling jobs to large additions, custom homes and land development.

Along with homes and wine cellars, Crowe has built a base of appreciative customers, who praise his craftsmanship, range of skills, efficiency and professionalism. Crowe's portfolio reflects the quality of his work and the quality of his character, one customer said.

Another customer was impressed with Crowe's wine-cellar design abilities, and described him as personable and trustworthy. Crowe delivered a computer-generated design, worked with another builder and finished the job as expected.
