Napolin Accident Injury Lawyer Glendora, a law firm in Glendora, CA, wants to emphasize that when in need of the services of a wrongful death & child injury lawyer Glendora residents can depend on them. They are ready to provide a free case consultation to those who have a wrongful death case in order to properly assess a particular case. A wrongful death lawsuit can be filed by the surviving family members or by a representative of the estate of the deceased, on behalf of the surviving family members who have been impacted by the passing away of that individual.

The wrongful death law in California allows surviving family members or the estate of the deceased to sue for damages when the death was caused by another person?s wrongful act, whether it was reckless, negligent, or intentional. This has been specified in the Code of Civil Procedure 377.60. The damages can include but are not limited to: compensation for the loss of the support and companionship of the deceased; the amounts that would have been earned by the deceased as income; and funeral and burial costs. And it is important to remember that the statute of limitations for wrongful death is two years.

It is also important to note that punitive damages will not be available through a California wrongful death lawsuit. Punitive damages may only be obtained through a California ?survival? cause of action under CCP 377.30. Survival causes of actions will need to be filed on behalf of the deceased person?s estate as compensation for the losses that have been suffered by the victim, and not the losses suffered by the surviving family members, from the wrongful act.

The Glendora accident injury lawyer also wants to advise the parents of kids who have been involved in an accident to visit a physician or chiropractor after the incident even if there are no apparent symptoms in their children. They also advise parents to set aside some of their time no matter how busy they are to ensure that their children who got involved in an accident will get the proper medical care or else their condition might not be diagnosed properly and on time. The impact of the damage, physical or emotional, may have lingering effects that affect them for a very long time. Some of the indications to look for are: nightmares or unjustified fear; headaches; and back or neck pain.

The parents will need to find a personal injury lawyer who really understands kids because there are certain unique issues that can have a significant effect on kids. Injuries in children may ultimately result into serious mental issues that they may suffer from for the rest of their lives. Thus, it is vital to have a serious advocate for the children who is ready to go above and beyond to optimize the case outcome. Being able to get the proper compensation for expenses for the family, at present and also in the future, will have better emotional and physical results for the kids. The personal injury lawyer who knows how to take care of such cases will also help the parents in establishing a structured annuity that will preserve the value of the settlement money for the children. And parents don?t have to worry about finances because the firm offers a free legal consultation and they also offer a contingency fee billing alternative.
