

Tree Service Experts San Bernardino Turns Stump Covered Yard into Farmable Land

September 23, 2021

September 23, 2021 -
San Bernardino, California ? After his trees were killed by a disease outbreak at the beginning of last year, Elias Bukowski decided to conduct DIY tree removal, getting rid of all the dead trees. After days of removing the trees, he was left with stumps on his landscape. He wanted to use the land for farming, but the idea of having to dig 15 stumps out of the ground together with their roots was too tiring ? he procrastinated until getting to work seemed impossible. It was later a friend gave him the idea of hiring Tree Service Experts San Bernardino for a stump removal project.

?My friend had worked with the company before,? Elias noted. ?They had helped him remove a dead tree together with its stump. When I called the company, they said they would be here the next day. They were here just yesterday. And as you can see, my land looks ready for planting.?

?Tree stumps can make a significant portion of your land unusable,? said Tree Service Experts San Bernardino chief of field operations. ?And if you are lucky and have one stump on your land, it could still turn into a hazard or keep damaging your lawn maintenance tools. This is why you should invest in stump removal after bringing down a tree.?

Tree Service Experts San Bernardino told our reporter that it uses two methods to remove tree stumps. ?We use stump grinding and complete stump removal,? said the company?s chief of field operations. ?Stump grinding is ideal for homeowners whose goal is to eliminate hazards while complete stump removal is ideal for people like Elias who wish to use the land occupied by the tree stump.?
