December 27, 2021 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

The new Kia Carnival has won the 2021 Newsweek Autos Award for Best Minivan. North Edmonton Kia, a car dealership in Edmonton, is featuring the minivan for sale for a base price of $36,345.

The Newsweek Autos Awards were a double victory for Kia America as the awards recognized the Carnival MPV and K5 as the best in their respective categories based on features, specifications, and driving impressions. A senior editor for the magazine commented on the Kia Carnival MPV?s victory by saying, ?The Kia Carnival MPV arrived in the market this year as a disruptor, pushing the limits of style and comfort.?

Sean Yoon, president & CEO, Kia North America, reacted to the awards in a statement published by Kia Media by saying, ?We are honored to receive two Newsweek Autos Awards for the Carnival MPV and K5, two of our newest vehicles representing Kia?s forward-looking brand direction. To have two vehicles from very different segments win this award is a testament to the industry-leading quality, design, and value inherent across the entire Kia lineup.?

North Edmonton Kia is making the Kia Carnival LX available for sale for its customers in Edmonton. The MSRP of the car is $34,495 which, when bundled with the delivery cost of $1850, makes the purchase price for the customer, $36,345. The dealership allows customers to personalize their payments by placing a downpayment and offsetting the purchase price of the car by handing in a trade-in. The dealership also allows the customer to choose between financing options for purchase or leasing the vehicle and also lets them choose a payment plan on a weekly, bi-weekly, semi-monthly, or monthly basis.
