Pensacola, Fla. - Fred Genkin, owner of Titan Sunrooms, a Pensacola, FL sunrooms contractor, has recently sat down with a woman, Wendy, who has impressively customized her new Blockhouse Shed to help further her writing dream. While sitting under an AC unit working to keep the room at a cool 68 degrees, the two discussed all the customizations, upgrades, and impressive features of the room, while the outside temperatures were rising above 90 degrees.

The shed Fred, Wendy, and Wendy's mother were sitting in had vaulted ceilings, a ceiling fan, an AC unit, electricity, reclaimed barn-wood flooring, full-size walls, and tasteful curtains veiling a view of the backyard. Wendy has customized her shed with photos of her family and friends, storyboards, bookshelves, and a few decorative touches such as a sign that hung just below the AC unit that displayed "This is my Happy Place."

When Wendy was asked what she used her Blockhouse Shed for, she stated with a smile, "I use my shed to put my books in and all my little knick-knacks that I use to write. All my storyboards are on the walls and it's easy because I can actually take them down and replace them with new ones - the magnets make it very easy to do that." Magnetic walls make it easy to hang, rearrange, and customize the inside of the space without having to commit to a permanent design. Most of the manufacturing installations Titan Sunrooms specializes in, such as Pensacola, FL screen rooms, can be customized beyond expectations.

Wendy is a writer, and she has placed a computer, printer, pieces of inspiration, and everything she needs to work on her second book for publishing. A home away from home, she has created a place to work on her book with all the comforts of a home addition in her backyard. Her customization of the shed is an impressive look into the possibilities that the Blockhouse Shed Series has to offer.
