Allogram, Inc. Odenton, a custom trophy Baltimore business, has announced that they have recently expanded their acrylic awards category. The company points out that they now have more than 500 items in their acrylics category. Two new items are the Advocacy Level and Awareness Level custom acrylic cut outs.

Amanda Gianotti from Allogram, Inc. Odenton states: "Since we offer customized acrylic awards, those Advocacy Level and Awareness Level acrylic cut outs represent an almost limitless number of items. We can create acrylic awards that are designed based on your specifications."

Amanda continues, "Our extensive equipment list includes six powerful laser engravers, traditional rotary engravers, full color thermal head printing, full color sublimation, direct UV printing, dimensional UV printing, woodworking and sand carving. Our creative graphics team can take your ideas and design the best award product for your application."

Advocacy Level custom acrylic awards have two to three components, have multiple thicknesses, are nine to 12 inches tall, and allow for full color or laser imprint on two to three surfaces. On the other hand, Awareness Level custom acrylic awards have one component, are three to six inches tall, have a thickness of up to one-half inch, and can have a full color or laser imprint on one surface.

Amanda points out that no matter what design the acrylic award is, it is always made to represent the client's company, brand, vision, and values. She says, "We have years of experience in various methods and mediums to achieve the award that represents your unique style. One piece or thousands, we can create an award that speaks to your audience and sends your message visually."

Aside from the Advocacy Level and Awareness Level awards, the acrylic awards category contains other designs, such as a clear acrylic award with a maximum size of 12 inches x 15 inches and has full color direct UV print and is designed for wall hanging; a clear acrylic award with 0.75 inch piano finish with ebony base; custom acrylic cut outs; a custom acrylic award with full UV print on a black snap-in base; custom mixed media awards; custom shaped clear acrylic with full color print on black acrylic base; gold and clear acrylic paperweights; Krystal Star acrylic trophy; Loyalty Level acrylic awards; Preference Level acrylic awards; and 3-D carved rising star award.

Amanda says, "Our precision computer driven equipment will diamond drag, burnish, route, sandblast, direct print, vector cut and laser engrave any personal message and logo into a variety of materials. With a large inventory of raw materials and component parts, we are able to produce your order not only quickly, but efficiently and at an unbeatable price."

According to Amanda, Allogram performs its operations based on a set of core values, which are reflected in all of the work that they do and are evident in their new additions to the acrylic awards collection. These core values include quality for the product, the message, the imprint, and the customer experience; technology of equipment, education, and communication; and accountability regarding creativity, accuracy, respectability, and honesty. These values are integrated into each piece of customized award that they produce, regardless of how large the order is.

Amanda points out that they offer complete transparency regarding prices. When selecting a particular award, customers are able to see the pricing structure and other details. Because of this, they will know exactly how much budget they need for their specific order.

With such a focus on core values, Allogram has earned a reputation of offering the best awards Baltimore businesses can rely on. This is demonstrated by the large number of positive reviews the company has received. For instance, Ramon K., who gave Allogram, Inc. Odenton a five-star rating, says on the company's Google page: "The service that Allogram provides is A-Rank. You could not ask for better service and I hope to do business with them in the future. Keep the good quality up!" Cassy R. also gave the company five stars and says, "Great company to work with! They provided very professional customer service with a personalized touch and a quick turnaround on the product. Very affordable and beautiful quality. We were very pleased and would highly recommend them."

Another factor that distinguishes Allogram from other awards companies is that they offer awards production services above and beyond what is shown in their catalog. Amanda says, "We offer fabrication services including laser engraving, routing, burnishing, full color direct UV printing, dimensional UV printing, vector cutting, sandblasting, chemical etching and sublimation. All of these services are provided "in-house" so we can control both production time and quality."
